NAVIGATING THE CRA WEB SITE: CHARITIES AND GIVING

A TOOL FOR CANADIAN GRANTMAKERS

An annotated guide to the Charities and Giving section of the Canada Revenue Agency website, to help you find information you need quickly and easily.
This updated guide has been developed to help foundations and other charitable grant-makers navigate the Charities and Giving section of the Canada Revenue Agency (CRA) website, dedicated to donors and charities.

Charities and Giving is an indispensable legal and regulatory resource for all registered charities and contains important information that you need to know about operating a charity. However, for the first-time user, and even for repeat visitors, the Charities and Giving site can be confusing to navigate and challenging to find key information quickly.

Our hope is that this guide will help you get the answers that you need as quickly as possible by highlighting key resources.

CRA invites you to contact them with your inquiries and encourages you to sign up for their electronic mailing list which will automatically notify you of additions and changes to Charities and Giving.

Charities should also consult a charity lawyer if they have specific questions relating to their charity.

WHAT’S NEW

DIGITAL SERVICES FOR CHARITIES

As of June 1, 2019, The CRA website has been updated to eliminate printing and encourage paperless filing. Forms will be now be available in downloadable PDF format, which means that forms can now be submitted online. CRA has launched digital services for charities through the CRA My Business Account.

By opening a My Business account, grantmakers will be able to file all of their forms, like the T3010, digitally. Watch a short video about My Business account below.
The CRA has recently adopted the Public Policy Dialogue and Development Policy which allows for charities to be involved with “political activities.” This is an amendment to the previous regulation that limited charities political involvement to just 10% of their annual expenditures.

Click here to find information on the newly revised document, CPS-022 Political Activities, now referred to as Public Policy Dialogue and Development Activities by charities (PPDDAs), under the Income Tax Act.

As of January 1, 2019, there is a new category of qualified donee. Registered journalism organizations (RJO) will be able to request recognition as a qualified Canadian journalism organization (QCJO). RJOs will be tax exempt and will have largely the same benefits as other charitable organizations, such as issuing donation receipts.
